Street Jesus News:

Welcome to the April edition of our e-news. With Easter fast approaching and the lent season drawing to a close our focus turns to that most profound event in human history the crucifixion and resurrection of our dear Lord Jesus Christ and all that means for our salvation and our relationship with God both now and into eternity. We were reminded of the importance of this during our recent outreach at Leiston co-op. (See picture right -five of our team of seven out on the day) We were using our Jesus at the door resource for the first time, two canvas picture, one of Jesus at the door and the other a person praying. The two backpacks, one carrying the heavy stones of sin and one with the light sponges of the holy spirit. We also had a desktop cross to explain what Jesus has done for us. We had one visitor who became quite emotional when going through the backpack of sin stage. She held what many call universalist views. She believed in God, that we are all children of God and that we were created by him but that when we die we all go back to the same place with God regardless of what we believe or how we act during our life time. She felt the whole idea of talking about sin was just a way of controlling people by making them feel guilty and bad about themselves. There is comfort in believing that we all live into eternity in heaven. And this is particularly so if you have endured the death of somebody close to you. You desire a heavenly place for them with no strings attached. There is even a heaven for all foundation in the USA. We asked about the place for people who do pure evil but she felt that we all learn and are redeemed. For Christians this is not part of our teaching. Good and evil, light and darkness cannot mix. The Love that God lavishes on us cannot be corrupted by sin because then love would not be pure. How wonderful then that we can look now to the cross as Easter approaches, that Jesus shed his blood and died for us that we could be made right with God, that he bore our sins so that we may be washed clean and hidden in him before Gods sight.

Its great when churches get creative in order to convey the message of Christ. Our church here in Wickham Market is holding an Easter drama during a service on Tuesday 4th of Holy week. I am taking part although not speaking, I will be wearing a black hoodie and will be representing a sin although I know not yet which one. I have been practicing looking mean in the mirror.

Street Jesus News:

Our new seekers group (no not a tribute band for the 1960's Australian pop group) has just begun, it is being held every Wednesday and is aimed at those who have a curiosity to learn more about the Christian faith. We invited five people and two have committed to the group with another likely to join in the next couple of weeks. The idea is for us to share our faith and help to answer people's questions. As somebody who came to faith at the age of 50 and with certain objections about Christianity I certainly had lots of them. It's very normal when we do our Street work to get asked questions. Going back through our debriefs over the years I counted at least 40 relevant questions. It's good to have an answer for people but sometimes we have to admit that we don't always know. People are sometimes disappointed as they feel that we should. In this we are reminded in all humility that we only see dimly as if through a cloudy mirror.

In our first group we asked 'What is the purpose of our lives' with a supplementary question 'What is the purpose of religion'. Lots of wide ranging ideas were expressed and it was a great discussion. We are hoping the seekers will own the group and be able to ask those questions that are important to them. We aim to make it open, honest and non judgemental so to build trust between us and explore together. This is the first time that I have ever led a group but I can see that God prepares us for work he wants us to do. We are soon to go to Spring harvest and over the years I have been attracted to the lectures on Apologetics and early in my Christian journey I got the opportunity to attend lectures run by Theos the think tank on religion which asked 'What place has religion in a secular society. What I have learnt over the years holds me in good stead for the work that God calls me to do now.

'THEOS'

Our subject for this week is 'The theory of evolution' which we will compare and contrast with the biblical account of creation. The person asking the question like I once did will no doubt feel that each perspective is contrary to the other. The theory of evolution can be a real barrier to people coming to faith. There are still many questions to answer before we can say with any certainty that species formed one into the other. I'm sure it will be an interesting chat. If you feel you know somebody who may benefit from attending our group, please do get in touch.

The bible urges us in Genesis 20:12 to honour our Fathers and Mothers and former Prime minister Boris Johnson took this rather literally and put his father Stanley forward for a knighthood. Most of us are not in a position to propose a knighthood for our fathers but for those of us who have been fortunate to have good and supportive fathers there are many ways in which we can honour them.

This is not a given. In the USA 63% of youth suicides, 90% of homeless children, 85% of children with mental health problems 71% of school dropouts are all from fatherless homes. We can see from this how important good fathers are. In short children with absent fathers are less likely to thrive. It is the same for us also in that we are far less likely to thrive in life without a heavenly father. If our earthly father disappoints us our heavenly father never will because he loves us with a love that surpasses all understanding.

Happy Easter Graham

Bible reading

Then Jesus said to his disciples: "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat; or about your body, what you will wear. For life is more than food, and the body more than clothes. Consider the ravens: They do not sow or reap, they have no storeroom or barn; yet God feeds them. And how much more valuable you are than birds! Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to your life^ᵃ? Since you cannot do this very little thing, why do you worry about the rest?"

"Consider how the wild flowers grow. They do not labor or spin. Yet I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of these. If that is how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today, and tomorrow is thrown into the fire, how much more will he clothe you—you of little faith! And do not set your heart on what you will eat or drink; do not worry about it. For the pagan world runs after all such things, and your Father knows that you need them. But seek his kingdom, and these things will be given to you as well.

"Do not be afraid, little flock, for your Father has been pleased to give you the kingdom. Sell your possessions and give to the poor. Provide purses for yourselves that will not wear out, a treasure in heaven that will never fail, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

Luke 12:22-34

Prayer

A Blessing

Three lit candles of varying heights, casting a warm, golden glow. The candles are positioned in the foreground, with the tallest one on the left and two shorter ones to its right. The background is dark, making the light from the candles stand out.

We pray for all those whose crops and land are affected by the climate crisis, that they may have strength and hope as they work to adapt to these urgent challenges. May God grant us wisdom to care for our common home, the earth, so that all people may flourish. Lord, in your mercy...

Amen
